TOUGH MEN BY
POWER OF SONGW. J. Ramsay Has a Wonderful Voice and a Gracious and Pleasing Manner.

HEAR A POWERFUL SERMON

Did Congregation That Gathered at First Presbyterian Church to Hear Rev. Richmond.

W. J. Ramsay, the noted singing evangelist, arrived last evening over the Big Four from Cincinnati. Mr. Ramsay, by his pleasing and gracious manner, his wonderful voice and power of song, completely captivated his audience last night. When the meeting closed everyone in the audience felt as though he had been in the presence and listened to a master artist in song. Throughout these coming weeks, the song service will be all that anyone could desire. The chorus of fifty voices led by this noted chorister and soloist, Mr. Ramsay, accompanied by the organ, piano and cornet will so inspire an audience that music will unconsciously and spontaneously gush forth in one grand and universal anthem, and the gospel will be sung into the hearts and lives of people.

Rev. L. O. Richmond of Shelbyville who will preach again tonight, preached a powerful sermon last night, taking his text from II Samuel 9-13, using the story of King David, inviting the cripple son of Jonathan, Mephibosheth to become a member of David's household. Mephibosheth had been carelessly dropped by his nurse when a little boy and injured his spine and ever afterwards he was crippled in both legs. For years he had been merely existing out in the desert region of Lodebar. Now he is invited to partake and enjoy the splendor, the grandeur and the plenty of a king's palace. David did this for Jonathan's sake. The pastor using this illustration showed how the people were lame with sin, and were living out in the desert region. But the king of glory invites the people to come to the heavenly palace and enjoy the everlasting pleasure for Christ's sake.

The minister spoke of having seen the kingly treasures of Great Britain, and the treasures of France, but magnificent and ample as these were, they were as nothing compared to the riches of heaven.

The thought was brought out that many, many people are lame through the carelessness of others. Individuals are in the midst of sin as the result of other people's carelessness. The speaker spoke of his experience and observations in the Bowery district of New York City. How indigent, dirty, neglected and diseased children were not born into this world but damned into it.

When Mephibosheth came to King David's palace he feasted every day and was royally treated. When people go to the heavenly palace they feast on the bread of life and drink of the water of life. The speaker used the story of Hamilton Fish, the noted bankers son of New York, while in the Spanish American war chose as his bunk mate a rough cow-boy. Fish was killed and Mr. Fish, Sr., took the cow boy for his son's sake. The Heavenly Father gives us a home for the sake of his son, who died on Calvary.

BACK TO BUSINESS.

In a business letter to the News, Elmer J. Binford, of Greenfield, states that after eight months' illness he is again ready to take up his business affairs. Because of illness Mr. Binford was compelled to withdraw from the Joint Senatorship race, last summer.

HOLD SERIES OF MEETINGS

Effort Being Made to Build a New Church.

A series of protracted meetings are being held this week in the Millroy M. E. church by Rev. H. W. Baldrige. He is assisted by Rev. W. B. Farmers of Lebanon. All the business houses in the town were closed this afternoon so that all might attend the special meeting for men only. An effort is being made to raise the money to build a new $20,000 church.

FATHER OF WATSON
ON HIS DEATH BEDCongressman is Summoned From Washington to Sad Scene in His Old Home.

THE CANDLE IS BURNING LOW

Winchester, Ind., Feb. 1.—Enos Watson, the aged father of Representative James E. Watson, is lying at the point of death at his home here, and the end is expected momentarily. Mr. Watson has been ill for some time and gradually sinking. This afternoon he became unconscious and physicians said the end was not far off. A message was sent at once to Representative Watson at Washington, advising him that his father is dying. He is expected to arrive here on the first train.

MARSHAL PAROLES
DYING PRISONERKnightstown Man, Well Known Here is Released From Michigan
City Prison

THAT HE MAY DIE AT HOME

Governor Marshall granted a parole yesterday afternoon to Matthew Barnes of Knightstown, a prisoner at the Michigan City Prison, who is dying from tuberculosis. The Governor's action was inspired by a pitiful letter he received yesterday from the man's mother, Mrs. Mary S. A. Barnes, who is a widow and is dependent for support on only a small pension. Mrs. Barnes wrote the Governor that the physicians at the prison had told her of her son's condition, and begged that he be given permission to come home to die.

SUSTAINED BROKEN
LEG WHILE PLAYINGAlfred Logan Slipped on Snow and Playmate Fell on Leg Causing Fracture.

YESTERDAY AT NOON HOUR

While playing in the school yard during the noon hour yesterday, Alfred Logan, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Logan of New Salem, fell and broke his leg. The boy was playing tag with his playmate when he slipped and fell to the ground, his young friend falling on his leg, causing the fracture. The broken bone was set by Dr. Logan and it is thought that the youth will recover from the painful injury.

DID BATES GO TO WETS CLAIM TO JOIN CHILDREN? SCORE IN COURTUnderstood That he Was Married
Before he Came Here Many Years Ago.

APPEARED HERE AS A TRAMP

Was a Marine in Civil War Three Years, But Would Never Apply For Pension.

Tom Bates, the veteran shoemaker, who has been missing from this city since last Wednesday, is still residing in parts unknown. Many theories were advanced when he first disappeared as to his whereabouts, but none of them seem to be correct. The main idea that was advanced was that he had suicided. And there was much reason for this belief, because Bates was a very peculiar character, whom no one seemed to know much about. But this theory can no longer be depended upon to become a reality, as no trace of him dead or alive can be found.

It developed since the disappearance of Bates, that he was married before coming to this city for the first time and that three grown children, two boys and one girl, are the result of the first union. But it is impossible to learn the present residence of the children by his first wife and why he left them. It is possible that he has returned to them and if their residence is located Bates might also be found there.

Tom Bates first came here as a tramp and asked for something to eat at the door of Mrs. Lucinda Caldwell many years ago. His present wife was living with Mrs. Caldwell at that time, and there saw him for the first time.

Bates soon began to work at the Wilson shoe store and was employed at that place until they sold out. Since that time he has been doing shoe repairing in the Odd Fellows building over the Bliss & Cowing store.

There are many things in the life of Bates that would brand him a peculiar character. It always seemed that there was something at the bottom of his life which he wished to keep dark. The most peculiar fact in connection with his varied career was the fact that he was a marine in the Civil war and yet could never be persuaded to apply for a pension. He left the service a year before the close of the war.

BIG MEETING FOR WOMEN SUNDAYEvangelist Yeuell Will Deliver Lecture on Subject "True and False Women."

MUSICAL PROGRAM ARRANGED

Men are not the only ones who can have big meetings and the women are now coming in for their share of the treat. Evangelist Yeuell will deliver a popular lecture next Sunday afternoon at the Main Street Christian church for women only on the subject the "True and False Women." A good musical program has been arranged and the women promise to better the men in attendance. At the meeting Sunday the men were exhorted not to tell their wives what was said and the women will likewise be asked not to impart anything that is said at the Big Meeting next Sunday—if that be possible.

Gain Two More Days by Asking for a Change of Judge
Today.

DID NOT LIKE JUDGE JACKSON

Court Must Supply Three Names
From Which a New Judge Will be Selected.

The wets scored again today in the legal proceedings calling for a county option election in Rush county. At least they consider it a victory and are pleased with the day's work. Yesterday, Judge Sparks sent the injunction proceedings to New Castle before Judge Jackson when a change of venue was asked. The wets were evidently not pleased with Judge Jackson and when the matter was called in the court house at New Castle this afternoon, the attorneys for the wets appeared and asked for a change of venue from Judge Jackson, and asked for another judge.

Under the law the court was obliged to grant the request. Judge Jackson will name three lawyers and has given the attorneys until tomorrow evening to strike out names. Under this procedure, the court having supplied the three names, the attorneys for the defense have the privilege of striking out one and the attorneys for the plaintiffs the same privilege; then the judge must appoint the remaining person. In event they do not strike out either of the names the judge may appoint either of the three men he has selected. This will mean two days delay in the injunction case. The local attorneys have a stack of legal papers ready for submitting to test the constitutionality of the county option law in event the matter ever comes to trial. The attorneys for the wets are Megee & Kiplinger and Smith, Cambern & Smith of this city and Boulden & Boulden of Indianapolis. The attorneys for the dries are Watson, Tittsworth & Green and A. L. Gary of this city and N. E. Forkner of New Castle.

OPEN CORN SCHOOL
WITH A FLOURISHKing Corn Sits on Throne and Hundreds of Farmers Gather to Worship.

AND ALSO TO LEARN WISDOM

The corn show that is being held at Centerville this week is known as the Sixth district farmers' short course. The advantages of the school are open to every farmer who lives within the boundaries of the Sixth congressional district. While not so elaborate a scale the work done approximates that done at Purdue university in the short course, which was given only a short time ago.

In the way of press notices, plenty of advertising was given the short course and it is certain that many of the farmers in all the counties in the district will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded.

in Columbus, O.—Good Voice.

FORMERLY RESIDED HERE

The Columbus Dispatch in writing a comment on Othello given by a local talent company, makes worthy mention of Miss Roberta Harris, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Harris of Perkins street and formerly resided in this city.

"Mrs. Kames as 'Desdemona' read her lines with becoming gentleness, and Mrs. Dildine made a most admirable 'Emilia,' her emphasis and her earnestness making this character stand out distinctly, while the 'Duke' of Miss Roberta Harris was given with much more than ordinary care and excellence, her voice being unusually rich and full, and well adapted to the part she so well assumed."

TRIBUTE TO MOTHER
OF LOCAL PASTORChristian Standard Publishes an Account of the Death of Mrs.

Jane Maria Abberley.

SUCCUMBED IN COLUMBUS

The Christian Standard of Cincinnati has the following account of the death of the mother of Rev. R. W. Abberley, pastor of the Main Street Christian church:

"One of the choicest spirits I have ever known exchanged the cross for the crown Dec. 27, 1908. Jane Maria Abberley was born in Cumberland, England, April 24, 1835, the daughter of John and Mary Harrington; married to Robert Abberley, Dec. 25 1860. To this union six children were born, four of whom survive. She was formerly a member of the Church of England, but united with the church of Christ in 1887, being baptized by A. Martin, then missionary of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society at Liverpool. Sister Abberley came to America in June, 1902, locating at Columbus, where her son, Richard W. Abberley, my honored predecessor in the Central Church, was minister for about six years. She was a faithful Christian, bringing her children up in the fear of God and in love for his cause. She had been confined to her bed for two years, and in all that time I never heard a word of complaint. She was gentle, sweet and Christianlike, and the fragrance of her beautiful life will remain. Funeral services were conducted by the writer from her late residence, 172 North Sixth street, December 29, the burial taking place in Green Lawn Cemetery."

WALTER SCOTT PRIEST.
Broad Street Church, Columbus, O.EIGHT CONVERTS
WERE BAPTISEDAt Yeuell Meeting Last Night and Six
More Responded to Evangelist's
Pleadings.

ADDRESSED THE HIGH SCHOOL

Will Preach Sermon Tonight on
"Snakes"—Immense Crowd
Last Night.

The Yeuell meeting last night at the Main Street Christian church was attended by another big crowd of expectant people. After an inspiring song service and solo by Mrs. Worth Rogers, Evangelist Yeuell delivered a most interesting and powerful sermon on "Future Recognition," and in response to the invitation at the close of the sermon six more persons went forward to unite with the church. In an after service eight converts were baptized by immersion, being the first baptisms in the big meeting.

"Future Recognition," said Mr. Yeuell in his sermon, "is proved by both reason and instinct and by the revelation of scripture. Inate in the human soul is the instinct of immortality. Long before Christ came Plato and Socrates expressed their faith in meeting kindred spirits in the immortal world. The Old Testament is full of references to the future state and personal recognition. The transfiguration and resurrection of Christ, as well as his teachings in his parables proves the truth of this great hope in every heart. The condition of our happiness, however, in the future state is the spiritual bonds we have in God." He closed a strong sermon with a thrilling invitation and six persons responded to the evangelist's appeals.

Tonight Mr. Yeuell will speak on the subject of "Snakes." The subjects for the remainder of the week are as follows:

Wednesday—"A Sure Thing."
Thursday—"The Lost Chord."
Friday—"The Great Voyage."
Saturday—"Shipwrecks," an illustrated lecture.
Sunday—A. M., "The Overloaded Elephant;" 2:30 p. m., women only, "The False and the True Woman;" 7:00, "The Sleeping Dove."

Evangelist Yeuell visited the high school this morning and addressed the students, giving a fifteen minute talk, in which he emphasized the importance of decision of character in making a life. He told the story of a young German prince going to Heidelberg University and his trying experience in laying aside the false and artificial life of the court in exchange for hardy democratic student life and so became a sturdy popular leader. Education, said Yeuell, is simply character building and we must not only learn what is in books, but learn nature and life. He quoted a fine poem found beside a skeleton in the royal college of surgeons in London, and which he said was equal to anything Shakespeare wrote and which had had a great influence on his life and finished by reciting Shakespeare's words in Richard III's soliloquy in dramatic style which greatly pleased the students. He will have a special sermon for the high school students Friday night on "The Great Voyage."

The regular meeting of the Auxiliary of the Christian Woman's Board of Missions will be held in the auditorium of the Main Street Christian church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Yeuell will be present and Mrs. Yeuell will speak to the ladies on the relation of the C. W. B. M. work and Evangelism.

THE WEATHER.

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

VI.—How Plants Are Propagated

By C. V. GREGORY,
Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

IN order to continue to raise crops from year to year we must propagate the plants in some way. There are two principal ways of doing this—by seeds and by divisions of the plant itself. The most important of these is by seeds, as it is in this way that most of the ordinary farm crops are multiplied.

In order to understand this process we must first learn how the seeds are formed. The tassel of the corn is the male flower and the silk the female. Some plants, such as certain varieties of strawberries, have only female flowers and must be planted in alternate rows with varieties which have both kinds of blossoms. In other plants the male and female flowers are combined in one. This is the case with the apple and many other fruits. In the apple the stamens, or male parts, grow in a ring around the pistil, or female part, which is in the center of the flower. The top of a stamen, which is expanded, is called the anther. This contains a yellow dust, the pollen.

The upper portion of the pistil is called the stigma. From it a tube called the style leads downward to the ovary. This ovary contains one or more egg shaped cells called ovules. Each of these ovules is capable of developing into a seed if fertilized with a pollen grain. When a grain of pollen alights on a ripe stigma it is held by a sticky substance secreted there. It soon germinates and sends a long, threadlike projection down through the style to the ovary. This slender projection enters the ovary, and the resultant union of the male and female elements causes a seed to develop. One pollen grain is required for each ovule, and each ovule develops into a separate seed. There are many thousand pollen grains produced by each stamen, and as there are several stamens for each pistil you will see that a great excess of pollen is produced. This is one of nature's methods of making reproduction more certain.

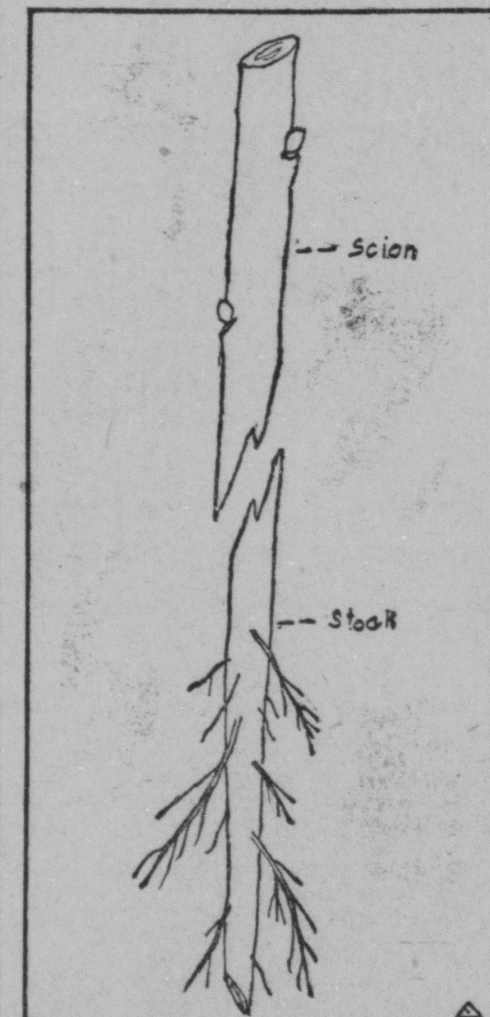

In flowers like the apple the pollen may sometimes fall directly on the stigma in the same flower. More often, however, the stamen and pistils ripen at different times. The object of this is to prevent self fertilization, which, if long continued, will weaken the vitality of the coming generations. Cross pollination—that is, the fertilization of the ovule of one flower by the pollen from another plant—unites the strength of both parents and produces larger, hardier seed.

This has been proved by many experiments. If the tassels are pulled from a row of corn before they have time to shed their pollen, the silks must necessarily be fertilized by pollen from other stalks. The cross pollination will cause the detasseled rows to produce heavier and larger ears. If this process is continued from year to year the yielding power of that particular strain will be considerably increased.

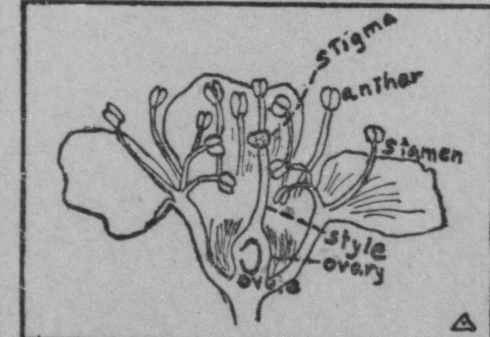

In such plants as corn the wind carries the pollen for rods in every direction. The air in the cornfield is so filled with the yellow dust that there is seldom any danger that the silks will fail to catch more than plenty to fertilize each of the many ovules that are to form the future kernels.

Some plants, however, are not so fortunate in this respect. The pollen of fruit trees is carried to some extent by the wind, but not nearly so much so as that of corn. In such plants as clover the stamens are at the bottom of a slender tube, from which they cannot escape unaided. Plants of this nature are dependent on insects to transfer pollen from one flower to another. In order to attract these insects the flowers secrete a sweet nectar, which collects in the bottom of the tubes of which the flowers are composed.

Ants, flies, butterflies and bees are very fond of this nectar and in collecting it carry the pollen of one flower to the stigma of another. Bees are most important in doing this work because they gather so much more of the nectar than do the other insects. They often carry home some of the pollen, too, which can be seen sticking in yellow balls to their hind legs, but enough is always brushed off to fertilize the flowers which they visit. The blossoms of red clover are so large that the short tongues of ordinary honeybees method of selecting small grain is by means of the fanning mill. By running through three or four times as much seed as is needed all the small grains may be sieved out and the light ones blown over, leaving only the heaviest, strongest ones for planting.

Grain that is intended for seed should be stored carefully in order that it may go through the winter uninjured. The chief enemies of stored seed are moisture, insects and rats and mice. The seed should be dry when stored and kept where moisture cannot gain access to it. Dry seed will stand almost any amount of freezing without injury.

There are a number of insects that damage seed grain by burrowing into the germ. If the seed room is tight, they may be killed by fumigating with carbon disulphide used at the rate of a pound to each thousand cubic feet of space. Place this in an open dish on top of the seed, close the room as tightly as possible, and in a few hours the insects will be exterminated. Care should be taken not to go near the room with a light, as the gas is explosive.

This same treatment is also fatal to rats and mice, unless they have some way of escaping from the room. If possible the seed room should be so well built that these pests cannot get into it.

The second method of plant propagation is by division—that is, by planting parts of the plant itself. Potatoes are propagated in this way almost entirely. If small willow and poplar branches are stuck into the ground, they will grow into trees. Apple and other fruit trees are propagated either by grafting or budding. Apple trees may be raised from seed, but the fruit of seedling trees is usually worthless. By taking a part of the tree and growing another from it, it will, of course, bear the same kind of fruit.

Grafting consists of joining pieces of small branches or scions of the tree which is to be propagated to pieces of roots or stocks. The roots of yearling seedlings are used for stocks. The scions, which should be about the size of a lead pencil, should be cut in the fall and packed in sand. The grafting can be done at any time during the winter. All that is necessary is to cut the lower end of the scion and the upper end of the stock at an angle, as shown in Fig. 13. These are then carefully fitted together and tied with a little common string. The essential point is to be sure to have the cambium layer of the scion join that of the stock. This cambium layer is the thin, light brown portion between the bark and the wood. It is the point where growth takes place.

The completed graft, which should be eight to ten inches long, is again packed in sand. In the spring the grafts are planted in a row in the garden and left until they are two or three years old, when they may be transplanted to their permanent place in the orchard.

Winged Burglars.

Buchner in his "Psychic Life of Animals" speaks of thievish bees which, in order to save themselves the trouble of working, attack well stocked hives in masses, kill the sentinels and the inhabitants, rob the hives and carry off the provisions. After repeated enterprises of this description they acquire a taste for robbery and violence. They recruit whole companies, which get more and more numerous, and finally they form regular colonies of brigand bees. But it is a still more curious fact that these brigand bees can be produced artificially by giving working bees a mixture of honey and brandy to drink. The bees soon acquire a taste for this beverage, which has the same disastrous effect upon them as upon men. They become ill disposed and irritable and lose all desire for work, and finally, when they begin to feel hungry, they attack and plunder the well supplied hives.

One Reason.

There may be two reasons for a thing, both equally true, and it may be the height of folly to attribute the effect to both. A gentleman to whom art was a strange thing asked a friend to whom the ways of its votaries were more familiar:

"Why does Conneray stand off and half shut his eyes when he looks at the pictures he is painting? I was in his studio the other day, and he made me do it too."

"That's simply explained," replied the other. "Did you ever try to look at them near to, with your eyes wide open? Well, don't. You can't stand it."—Youth's Companion.

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion Will Vanish.

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas; biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to F. B. Johnson & Co., this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only 50 cents, and F. B. Johnson & Co., guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

ITALY'S NOBLE QUEEN

Tributes to Helena's Admirable Work in Messina.

CALLED "LADY OF MERCY."

Ground Upon Which Her Majesty Walked Literally Worshipped—Her Heroism Amid Horrors of Earthquake Stricken Districts—Sound of Wounds of Many Hundreds.

Although Queen Helena of Italy during the last few days has been called upon to witness appalling scenes in the cities and villages devastated by the recent earthquake in southern Italy and Sicily, to which she was totally unaccustomed and which so affected her that tears were never absent from her eyes, she still has consolations which must bring comfort to her in her work of mercy.

While at Rome the queen goes about almost unnoticed. In Messina the ground she walked upon is literally worshipped. She had but to appear to have the whole neighborhood on their knees before her, wishing to touch her hand or gown. Daily she visited the ships where the wounded lay. It was a most touching sight to see aged men trying to straighten up when she came to their bedsides. Women kiss her hand, and the children smile and seek to win a glance of her eye. She would speak to each, holding up many weary heads and administering medicines and cordials with her own hands, give biscuits to the children, while from the women she drew the tale of their sufferings and misfortunes. She is called by these "our lady of mercy."

Describing the heroism of Queen Helena amid the horrors of ruined Messina, Minister of Justice Orlando said to the New York World's Rome correspondent:

"Any eulogy I might utter would be far below the truth. Alone, not even accompanied by one of her ladies in waiting, she has carried out a series of deeds of benevolence which those capable of the greatest sacrifices would hardly be able to emulate and has done it with simplicity beyond all praise.

"Unrecognized, not caring to be known as queen, she assisted many ladies who believed she was a simple hospital nurse. With her own hands she bound up the injuries of 200 people. Seeing the want of clothing and learning that a freight car with bales of cloth had arrived a few days before for a Messina merchant, her majesty immediately ordered it to be taken to an improvised workshop at the back of a hospital and herself began to cut out garments. She showed the women how to work with the greatest alacrity.

"A woman who was grievously wounded had to undergo an operation, which it was necessary to perform promptly. No one else being available at the moment, the queen without the slightest hesitation took a leg of the injured woman in her hands and held it throughout the operation. Finally when the surgeon finished she consoled the sufferer with tender words."

Signor Mirabello, the Italian marine minister, gave the following account of the accident to Queen Helena a few days ago at Messina, when she suffered contusions of the chest. He said:

"The queen was in one of the improvised hospitals. She was in the act of bending over a wounded woman when suddenly the door was thrown open violently, and a crazy man rushed in, crying loudly: 'The end of the world has come! The earth has fallen in! Save yourselves! Save yourselves!'

"The wounded woman, terrified, jumped from her bed and started running toward the door. The queen, with great presence of mind, placed herself in front of the unfortunate and extended her arms to stop her. But the woman was out of her mind with fright. She lowered her head and precipitated herself on the queen, driving her head with full force against the queen's breast. The queen fell backward. Her mouth became full of blood, and this bleeding continued for some time."

"And what did the doctor say?" the minister of marine was asked. "I don't know," Signor Mirabello replied. "I don't think he was even consulted. The doctor knew only that the queen took chloral that night to induce sleep. Who could have slept under those fearful conditions? The next day Queen Helena continued her work, as usual, although every now and then her lips were reddened by blood.

"The queen was sublime. She made the battleships, principally the Regina Elena, the scene of her labors. She attended to hundreds of wounded on the Regina Elena with her own hands, and she assisted Professor Bastinelli, one of the royal doctors, in performing a number of operations.

"Her majesty again has demonstrated the beauty of her soul by her courage and devotion and modesty, and she is worthy of the undying admiration of the entire Italian people."

The queen is taking particular interest in a six-year-old girl who was rescued from the ruins at Messina under remarkable circumstances. While some Italian sailors were climbing over wreckage they heard weak cries of "Maria, Maria!" After much work they reached a room where they found a parrot continuing to utter cries of "Maria!" The seamen turned to leave, but as the parrot persisted in its cries they broke into an adjoining room and found a girl lying senseless. She and the parrot were taken on board the battleship Regina Elena. The queen nursed the girl with her own hands.

DOOM OF MESSINA.

English Survivor Describes Rescues and Perils of Earthquake.

SAILORS WERE THE HEROES.

Faced Death For Others and Saved Several Lives—Sailed Tottering Buildings by Ropes to Rescue Children—Ship Broker's Great Work and Narrow Escape.

Constantine Dorena, a London ship broker, is the first Englishman to reach London from Messina, where he had a wonderful escape from the recent earthquake. He went to Messina a few weeks ago to drydock a Russian steamer. He was staying at the Trinacria hotel with an English friend named Craiger. His bedroom was on the third floor facing the sea. In an interview published in London he says:

It was a dark, still night, the coldest I ever felt in Sicily. I went to bed late after putting extra covering on the bed. I was awakened without warning at 5:35. The bed first rose up and then rocked violently. I clutched the sides of the bed, which seemed to be falling through space for ages. Afterward I estimated the time to be ten seconds.

Then came a series of awful crashes, the roof falling all round me. I was smothered in brick and plaster. I knew it was an earthquake. I had been in one before in Athens. The series of crashes was mingled with a continuous roar. I felt for matches, struck a light and was horrified to find my bed on the side of an abyss.

Dorena discovered Craiger and from the ruins rescued a Swede and his wife. Amid the appalling surroundings they succeeded in reaching the quay and getting on board the Cardiff steamer Afonwen. Dorena then organized a rescue party composed of the Afonwen's master, Captain Owen, three of his sailors and several Russian sailors. With Dorena and Craiger all returned to the hotel with ladders and ropes.

En route they saw on the balcony of a ruined building two little children crying for help. The building seemed ready to collapse at any moment. Second Mate Read of the Afonwen did not hesitate. The children were directed to lower a string with a stone tied to it. They understood, and presently a piece of string was seen coming down. In the meantime Read placed a ladder against a lower balcony. Then he turned to one of his seamen, who were standing by, and said, "Now, then, Smith."

Dorena goes on: I shuddered. It seemed like certain death. Smith turned his quid in his mouth and without a word went up the ladder to the first balcony and got to the edge, which had been let down by the children. He attached a light line, which the children hauled up and placed around one of the standards at the top of the balcony. By this time Smith hauled up a two and a half inch Manila rope. He then took off his boots and in a trice was swinging up the rope beside the rungs. I held my breath. I have read of many brave deeds, but I never heard of one braver than Smith's. When he reached the top of the balcony he leaned over and shouted: "Why, there's a ton of them up here! I can't manage all of them myself!"

Captain Owens turned to Read. It was enough. In a second Read was shining up the rope hand over hand. We watched him with fear clutching our hearts. There was a sigh of relief when we saw him standing beside Smith at the top of the building, which seemed to be rocking to its fall every second.

The men aloft soon got to work. One of Captain Owens' apprentices rendered great assistance. I stood at the foot of the ladder to prevent its slipping. The moments were flying. We did not know how soon the whole thing would collapse. An Italian workman stood staring at us. I begged him to lend a hand, but his face only assumed a more vacuous expression, if that were possible, and we were left to do the work ourselves.

Read and Smith made their hawsers fast. Then one by one they lowered the cowering creatures who had been awaiting death. From that crazy height up to ten times the rope was lowered, each time with a child resting in a slip noose the sailors had formed. Then came an old woman who was very stout. We had a great deal of trouble to get her down, but managed it at last.

There was one man among the crowd of survivors. Smith threatened to throw him off the building unless he helped to lower the old lady. At last the brave rescuers came down on the rope themselves. They had saved twelve people from certain death. They worked as coolly as if they had been on the ground. They had been in imminent danger of their lives, yet when they came down they quite resented our congratulations.

There was other work for us near by. We heard piercing cries from a woman buried to the waist in the ruins of a shop. The buildings round her were blazing. Slowly, but surely, the flames were creeping nearer to her. Could she be saved? Captain Owens gave a sharp word of command, and soon Read was rushing to the Blake, a ship moored at the quay. In a few minutes he was back with a saw. He dashed through the raging flames and began with frantic energy to saw through the plank that held the woman fast.

We waited in terrible suspense. Then with relief we saw the end of the plank sawed away, and Read came through the flames, carrying the rescued woman in his arms. Just at this moment an Italian officer came up. He witnessed this scene and asked me the name of the ship the men belonged to and said he would send an account of their splendid bravery to his government, and he hoped they would recognize it. "Meantime," he added, "I can only thank them for their heroic efforts."

At this moment we heard cries from the rear of the Hotel Trinacria, which had been left standing. We saw Signor Cogel, a gentleman staying at the hotel, standing on a narrow ledge. We rescued him.

Every moment was one of terror. There were from twenty to thirty shocks during the day. Prowling among the ruins were panic-stricken fugitives and escaped prisoners, the latter looting. I saw wretches hacking off the fingers of the dead to get their rings. Nothing came amiss for them.

I must not forget to say a word about the Russians. Some Russian warships arrived in the afternoon of Tuesday. They immediately got to work and showed wonderful kindness and sympathy. I watched the big Russian sailors gently handling little children and soothing their fears with simple words which, although in a foreign tongue, seemed to calm the little ones. They were just as gentle with the wounded, handling them with almost womanly tenderness.

Indianapolis, Feb. 2.—The completed canvass of the vote for president of the United Mine Workers of America shows the re-election of Thomas L. Lewis by a majority of 16,000 over John H. Walker, president of the Illinois miners and anti-Lewis candidate for president of the organization. No

He does not, however, withdraw his charges of election corruption. "If the votes in the election had been cast fairly, I think I would have been elected," said he. "Lewis's friends not only packed the election, but they have packed this convention, and it would be useless for the opposition to fight in it. The presence here of large numbers of international organizers, who depend on Lewis for their jobs and draw their wages from the international treasury, is but one of the methods of packing the convention."

Settled Controversy.
The mine workers decided to settle the controversy between President Lewis and District President Van Horn of Indiana over the Hudson mine trouble by voting in convention on the question. The long roll was called by districts and it was evident before half way through that Van Horn had been defeated. The convention voted on whether to sustain the action of the Hudson men in refusing to obey the orders of President Lewis and the ex-

—There is nothing that will convince a lawyer except evidence.
Now, here is some rather startling evidence of a simple home cure for eczema which convinced one lawyer E. C. Entriken, attorney at Moline, Ill. He tells how oil of wintergreen compound mixed with Elymel and glycerine, as in D. D. D. Prescription, cured him in thirty days after thirty-two years of suffering.

"For thirty-two years," writes Attorney Entriken, "I was troubled with eczema, scabs all over my face, body and ead. I could run a hair brush over my body and the floor would be covered with scales enough to fill a basket. I tried everything—salves, internal medicine, X-Ray—all without result.

"Just a month ago I was induced to try D. D. D. Prescription. The itch was relieved instantly; so I continued. It is just a month now and I am completely cured. I have not a particle of itch and the scales have dropped off."

"I can only say again CURE DISCOVERED. I am now starting all eczema sufferers on the right track." Cure after cure has been brought to our attention and always that instant relief from the awful itch. Lytle's Drug Store.

PREPARING FOR TRIAL

Case Against Standard Oil to Be Heard by Judge Anderson.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Fifty subpoenas, issued by Judge K. M. Landis in the district court for District Attorney Sims, have been given the United States marshal for service on witnesses to appear for the government at the second trial of the $29,240,000 case against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The trial will start before Judge A. B. Anderson of Indianapolis, Feb. 23, Judge Anderson coming to Chicago at the request of Judge Landis, who declined to direct the second trial.

Marshall's Trial in Progress.

Indianapolis, Feb. 2.—The trial of Henry W. Marshall, president of the Western Construction company, and former speaker of the house of representatives of the Indiana general assembly, who is charged with making out and presenting a fraudulent claim to the city of Indianapolis in connection with street paving, is in progress in the criminal court. It is expected the jury will be completed this afternoon.

Uncle Sam's Monthly Statement.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows the total receipts for January 1909 to have been $47,480,428 and the expenditures $63,024,280 which leaves the deficit for the month $15,543,852 and for the seven months of the present fiscal year $79,814,443.

CALIFORNIA'S HANDS UPHeld BY NEVADA

Legislature of Latter State Passes Extraordinary Resolution.

Carson, Nev., Feb. 2.—A strong resolution declaring in favor of drastic anti-Japanese legislation, criticizing Theodore Roosevelt and designating the Japanese "as parasites of the world," and a menace to civilization and progress on the Pacific coast, was reported favorably by a committee of the whole in special session of the Nevada legislature and will be voted upon at 3 o'clock this afternoon under a special order.

The resolution is directed to the California legislature and declares in favor of that body passing measures that will prevent the influx of Japanese. It further recommends that the California legislature pay no attention to what is termed "coercion and interference on the part of President Roosevelt in the anti-Japanese movement."

A DREAM COME TRUE

Gridiron of Trolley Lines From New York to Indianapolis.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 2.—Ten years ago the prediction that within a few years it would be possible to travel by electric trolley from Cleveland to Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany, Pittsburgh, and New York, was characterized as a dream, yet today that dream is almost a reality.

The completion this week of a trolley line between Seville and Ashland, O., closes a gap which makes possible continuous trolley travel between Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. On or before February 10, there will be inaugurated through limited service between Cleveland and Mansfield, making direct trolley connections with Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. Later a through limited service between Cleveland and Columbus will be established.

Construction work looking to the closing up of short gaps in the trolley systems of New York, Indiana and Ohio is now progressing rapidly and within the current year, it is said, continuous travel by trolley between all the cities mentioned will be possible. There are now only a few short gaps to prevent through trolley service between Chicago and New York, only one gap between Cleveland and Buffalo, only one between Cleveland and Pittsburgh and also only one between Cleveland and Chicago.

FACTIONAL ROW IN ELECTRICAL UNION

Deposed Secretary of Illinois-Indiana Council in Jail.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 2.—Unable to give bond in the sum of $100 for his appearance in a justice court here, F. R. McDonald, deposed secretary-treasurer of the Illinois-Indiana Council No. 4 International Union of Electrical Workers, was sent to the county jail on a charge of larceny as bailed.

McDonald was arrested on a warrant sworn out by President M. McNeely of the Electrical Workers. The latter asserts that McDonald refuses to turn over the accounts of the organization. Because of the stand taken by the former secretary, who appointed his own successor following his removal from office by a referendum vote of the locals of Illinois and Indiana, the opposing faction cannot hold the convention called for next Sunday in this city.

California Mother Discovers Babe in Jaws of Mountain "Varmint."

Balboa, Cal., Feb. 2.—Her two-year-old boy killed and his body terribly mutilated by a monster mountain lion, and the fierce beast devouring one of his legs which it had torn from its socket, was the sight that Mrs. Chris Brown beheld when she entered the family tent, four miles from the Hotel Delmar, after a short walk last evening.

GEORGE J. GOULD AND HIS CAREER.

GEORGE J. GOULD, the head of the Gould system of railways, controls 17,000 miles of track, sufficient to run a road three quarters around the earth at the equator. This is but the beginning, seemingly, of the realization of his ambition, for his alliance with Rockefeller gives him a backing that makes the railway magnates fear the outcome of his plans. Within a year his transcontinental system from Ogden, Utah, to Baltimore, Md., has been in full operation and will, without doubt, be the means of restoring to Baltimore her former prestige as a great port of the nation.

Mr. Gould now in his forty-eighth year, handles big enterprises with an ease, a certainty and a grasp of essentials that reveal him as a thoroughly satisfactory follower in the footsteps of his father, from whom he received the beginning of his business training.

His early education was with private tutors and without going to college he entered the world of finance under the watchful chaperonage of his father. At an age when most rich men's sons are busy inventing new ways of being happy and taking post-graduate courses in spending money, George was studying railways, finance, the machinery of a director's room and the manipulation of large schemes and movements as seen from the general's tent, where the full plan of campaign was outlined. Before he was thirty he was a director in many large corporations and one of the powers behind the throne in Missouri Pacific, Manhattan Elevated, Western Union and a number of other companies where his voice and his vote were factors in determining the control of millions.

Heredity, environment and a feeling of responsibility combined with his own hard sense and a singular concentration and energy of purpose helped him to hold and increase the fortune left him by his father.

Mr. Gould is a tireless worker, intensely interested in his business life; but in his hours of rest and recreation at his home in Lakewood, N. J., he puts his whole heart into his polo or his romps with his five children, as if business were only a word in his dictionary, not a factor in his life. His palace in the pines at Lakewood is an architectural dream; realized seemingly by a magic spell in a clearing in the forest. The house is of gray brick in the Renaissance style with treasures of furnishing. The stables, polo grounds, theatre, casino, racing track, swimming pools, sunken garden and marvellous fountain, all designed and carried into execution by the ablest artists, on regal lines of magnificence, make "Georgian Court" one of the finest country houses in America.

CURRENT COMMENT

Mud and Honesty.

A foreigner who has been in this country taking notes says that the American children are kept too clean. They are robbed of the natural heritage of every child and held ready for parade in and out of season. The desire to get close to Mother Earth is an instinct of nature. The earth is clean and sweet, and it's only a flimsy distinction in color that makes honest smut unseemly. There's honesty beneath muddy feet and hands and frocks and trousers. A child with that outlet won't take the trouble to sneak and lie. Often a child is "haunted in" from an orgy with mud pies, spanked, washed and clothed afresh, only to go straight out and offend again in the face of another licking. If evil comes of it, it should be laid to the punishment and not to the mud. Punishment leads to deceit and to pastimes on the sly which leave no trail.

The wife of a rich self made man placed her son in a fashionable boarding school with the single proviso that he was to "have a good time regardless of expense." The father had had to work hard when a boy and wanted his hopeful brought up differently. So long as the money lasted the boy escaped hard work and honest smut, but it is needless to say he reveled in it. Nature must have her pay day from rich and poor. Soft hands and spick and span clothes may be a badge of snobbery, but they are not a patent of nobility. Children will learn to be clean and tidy when they come to it by the road that leads to self respect, and they'll never forget the why and wherefore of the new birth. Play that leaves its mark on the child, like toll that leaves grime on the hands, teaches resourcefulness and self control. Mud will come off, but sometimes play that is clean puts a taint on character that neither the rod nor prayers can take away.

The Constitutional Emperor.

By words rather than deeds the impulsive and strenuous kaiser has impressed himself upon the American people as an emperor of the kind that reigned before divine right was seriously challenged and whose "iron hand" or "mallet fist" stands for irresistible sway. William II. is not of that kind, and it needed but a clash of his will with the aroused will of the German people to show that the imperial power centered in Berlin is nothing to make the earth tremble unless backed by the national spirit.

Politically the German empire is a union governed as a federal representative system. The parliament is elective and democratic. There is no monarch in the usual sense, but a monarchical feature is retained by making the presidency of the federal council hereditary and vesting the imperial executive power in the king of Prussia. Prussia is the strongest member of the union and holds the balance of power in parliament. But the powerful states of Wurtemberg, Bavaria and Saxony hold special privileges guaranteed by the constitution as inviolable. In brief, the kaiser is a president having unusual powers and privileges, which, however, stop far short of being supreme.

A Warning to Go Slow.

No one can object to calling it a "prosperity panic" if that explanation of the slump in 1907 is taken as a warning to go slow as prosperity smiles again. A year is much too short a time for learning how to do without and to find the simple life agreeable all around. The "burned child dreads the fire" only when the burn was a smarting one and the smarting of the hang on kind.

With the panic for texts the preaching of sermons upon the national sin of waste will continue. But the best sermon is the lesson that is burned in, and if we cannot believe that the panic was a real scorcher we can at least make sure that the prosperity of today is the real thing before we plunge into a prosperity gait of high living.

Hurrah for the "Panama canal veteran," who is to wear a bronze medal showing that he was two years on the job. And, by the way, the job will last long enough to earn a service stripe or two in addition to the medal.

Among the earliest callers at the Outlook sanctum to congratulate Associate Editor Roosevelt there will be a contingent of congressmen and senators wearing smiles that link ear to ear.

"Shall the people rule?" is the cry of the masses in Bulgaria, and they began knocking Prince Ferdinand the moment he declared an empire instead of a republic.

It would undoubtedly add to the happiness of New Year's if some one would publish a census of all the American couples who are "happy though married."

China can trot out an heir to "my policies" any minute, for she has an assortment of all ages in the palace cold storage.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

The express man had just delivered some ice cream to the Caron candy kitchen and he set it out in front on the sidewalk as usual. The proprietor saw the line of freezers outside, but thought that he would wait until evening before bringing them in as he did not have much floor space on the inside. In the afternoon the identical same express man passed the Candy kitchen. He noticed the ice cream that he had delivered in the morning still on the sidewalk. He stood there for a moment, rubbed his hand across his forehead, and then walking into the candy store, he said in a serious voice, "Say, you had better take this ice cream in before it freezes."

ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKEN HERE

A Washington story says: "Congressman James Watson of Indiana, who would have been governor of his State if the people hadn't voted so largely for Marshall, was recalling some of the drolleries of the campaign in the House cloak-room the other day. 'I've a friend in a certain Hoosier town,' he said, 'who murders the English language after a fashion truly unique and unapproachable. I met him in the course of the campaign and invited him to attend a rally that was to be held not far from his town the next day. I spoke at the rally, but my friend wasn't there. The following day I met him. 'Why didn't you come out?' I inquired. 'We had a wagon ready for you.' His answer was startling. 'If I'd a-knewed I could ride, I would a-went,' he said."

THE GROUND-HOG.

However, be that as it will,
The ground-hog will obey
The impulse of prophetic gift
Upon the second day.
He'll feel the vibrant air of spring
Run up and down his spine,
Roll over like a hired man,
Sit up and yawn and whine,
Rub all his knuckles in his eyes,
Wind up his winter snooze,
Put on his go-to-meetin' clothes
And patent leather shoes,
Ascend the stairs of his lair,
Observe the sky awhile,
And join the Ananias club
In fine and dandy style.

FEBRUARY TO BE A BAD MONTH

Weather Prognosticator Says We Will Have Four Storm Periods
This Month.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks in his weather prophecy for February kindly allows us two or three fair days—no more.

For the rest the mercury plays tag with the bottom of the thermometer tube, thunder will roar and tempests whistle, and snow and rain and sleet will combine to make the month the severest of the winter. Just see what the foxy prognosticator hands us:

A regular storm period covers the first five days in February which is central on the third. By the 1st and 2d the barometer will be falling and the temperature will be rising in western sections of the country. By the 3d cloudiness and storm areas will be organized, and during the 3d to 6th rain, wind and snow will prevail generally, passing progressively from the western to eastern extremes of the country. The storms of this period will reach their culminating severity and extent in connection with full moon on and touching the 5th. Storms will have turned to driven snow in the north and west, followed closely by rising barometer, high northwest winds and change to much colder. Cold, fair weather will advance eastward and southward in the immediate rear of these progressive storms, reaching in varying degrees of frigidity most parts of the 7th to 8th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 8th, 9th, and 10th. At this time look for marked reaction to warmer, beginning in the west. Falling barometer will follow, bringing cloudiness and rain, with possibly electrical storms southward, on and touching the 9th. As these storms move eastward, the west sides of the storm areas will turn to snow, and be followed immediately by rising barometer and much colder, fair weather. We name the 15th, 16th and 17th as the central days of storm developments. On the touching these dates low barometer and storms of rain, turning to snow, will touch most sections in their eastward passage across the country.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 20th, 21st and 22d.

Marked barometric depression will appear at the beginning, or as early as the 19th, attended by growing warmth, and during Saturday, the 20th, to Tuesday, the 23, general and decided storms of rain, wind and thunder will visit regions to the southward, turning to heavy and destructive sleet storms over central to northern sections. Blizzards are entirely possible at the culmination of this period. There is strong probability of West India hurricanes at and about this period. Barometer conditions in all the gulf and south coast regions should be persistently watched and heeded. In all proba-

Dignity of Labor Must Be Taught to Negro.

OR any race, regardless of color, just emerging from a state of bondage to a state of freedom it is mighty important in the evolution of that race that it be taught as soon as possible, especially while it is getting the experience in its early life, to KEEP ITS FEET UPON THE EARTH—to not yield to the temptation to fly off into artificial atmosphere. The teaching of the young negroes in the south to keep their feet on the earth, to keep in touch with the soil, to keep in touch with wood and iron and the real things of life, has been FARREACHING AND MOST HELPFUL IN ITS INFLUENCE.

The results of this kind of teaching will show themselves much more in the future than in the immediate present. Then, too, for a race just coming out of slavery it was mighty important at many large centers in the south that the race should have that education which should teach it the DIGNITY OF LABOR, the same lessons that the early settlers of New England learned years ago, the same lessons in regard to labor which have made the present generation of people who inhabit New England strong, powerful and useful citizens.

THE NEGRO, LIKE ANY OTHER RACE, NEEDS ITS PROFESSIONAL MEN, NEEDS MEN WITH COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY EDUCATION, BUT BACK OF THESE AND AROUND THESE IT NEEDS AN INTELLIGENT, THRIFTY, SKILLFUL, PRODUCING CLASS WHO LOOK UPON ALL KINDS OF LABOR AS DIGNIFIED AND ALL KINDS OF IDLENESS AS DISGRACEFUL.

bility seismic shakes will be reported from many parts of the globe within three days of sunset on the 19th most likely on the 20th, 21st and 22d.

The barometer will fall decidedly on entering the period beginning on the 26th and renewed storms of rain, sleet and snow will visit in some form or other, almost the entire country on and touching the 26th, 27th and 28th. This is a time when the sleet god will have a picnic with the wires. We must not forget that the vernal equinox is in strong force by this time and this fact will guarantee heavy and general storms, winding up with probable blizzards as the month goes out. Whatever forms storms may take on, it may be put down as a reasonable certainty that disagreeable and dangerous conditions will prevail as we pass from February into March.

Proceedings Against Castro.

Caracas, January 29.—Via Port of Spain, Feb. 2.—In accordance with instructions from the minister of the Interior, the attorney general will bring suit in the high federal court against Cipriano Castro, the former president of Venezuela, on the charge of having instigated the assassination of President Jose' Vicente Gomez.

Costly Ruse of Canadian Burglars.

Gananoque, Ont., Feb. 2.—Fire destroyed the Turner block here Sunday, causing a total loss of $110,000. The Grand opera house erected a year ago at a cost of $30,000, also was destroyed. It is supposed that burglars who robbed an adjacent jewelry store, set fire to the block to distract suspicion.

NO CHEAP STUFF FOR BARBER SHOP

Police Gazette and Illustrated Record Will be Replaced by the Bible.

DISTRIBUTED BY W. C. T. U.

No longer is the Police Gazette or the Illustrated Record to flourish in the barber shops and fill the waiting customers with the raw material for nightmares. In the future every stand which holds the literature in the tonsorial parlor is be equipped with a bible and many a customer will find something new on the stand to read. For years the Police Gazette and the Illustrated Record have pictured vividly atrocious murders drawn by an artist from telegraphic description, prize fights seen by the artist in the same way and thrilling accidents gotten up without regard to truth. The pictures and reading matter have become so coarse in comparison with other publications that they now fail to hold even the attention of the Saturday night patron, who would do almost anything to pass away the long wait for visitors in the city to get long delayed hair cuts, so the bible may fill into the place and command attention from those who otherwise might never consider they have the time to read it. The bibles are being distributed by the W. C. T. U. but so far the work of supplying the barber shops in this city has not commenced.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker will be at home at 905 Walnut street, Indianapolis, after February 6.

Miss Marguerite Campbell and Edgar Vansickle were married last evening at the home of the bride in West Ninth street in the presence of about fifteen friends. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion and a sumptuous six-course dinner was served following the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white mousseline and carried a bouquet. The wedding was marked with simplicity, and was performed by Rev. McDonald of Shelbyville, assisted by Rev. Trestel of Arlington. Mrs. E. F. Scofield of Indianapolis, a sister of the bride, attended her. The couple will reside in West Ninth street.

WILL SAIL UNDER THEIR OWN COLORS

So Sayeth the Committee on Services of the First Presbyterian Church.

THEY DO NOT MISREPRESENT!

The following notice which is self-explanatory, was submitted here today for publication:

Someone by mistake or otherwise has said that the First Presbyterian church of this city, under the title of Men's Big Meetings, is to have a meeting next Sabbath afternoon. Such a thing was never for a moment contemplated. We do not do business that way; we sail under our own colors. We do not at any time propose to involve or misrepresent the interdenominational committee which has done such good work for the Men's Big Meetings.

GLOOM COMES WITH SHADOW

We Are Going to Have Six Weeks More of Bad Weather, or Are We?

HE SURELY SAW HIS SHADOW

Groundhog is Not a Farmer Who Wants to Own All the Land in the County.

Let everyone look for his shadow today. This request should not be construed as an insinuation of any sort, because it is not to be inferred from it that everybody is a groundhog. It has been said that a groundhog is a man who has more land than he can pay taxes upon and is still acquiring more. This also is a mistake.

The groundhog of literature is a fourfooted beast with a shame-face, a bullet head and a gimlet nose. He doesn't cut much figure until about February 2, when he is expected to be brought up and threshed out by eloquent giants who take opposing views of the question as to whether he "comes out" on the first or the second. While these polemical attacks are beating the wind with their oratory, Mr. Groundhog "comes out" and looks sheepishly about him for his shadow. If he sees it—well, he turns around and goes right back again.

And then what? Well, we've mentioned the matter now, and you'll hear the rest in several different ways, with all sorts of variations and modifications before the day is over.

How are we to know that the groundhog sees his shadow? Well, the surest way is to look for your own. If you make a shadow today you can set it down that the hog made one, too.

The ancestral name of the groundhog is arcetomys manax, which appears to be a corruption of the expression, "Tommy get your broad ax." This brief history of the nomenclature is, as a matter of course, rather arbitrary, but if an exception is noted we will simply point out that the groundhog himself has never disputed it, and as to others—well, it is none of their business.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Miss Langdon held out her hand impulsively. "Then it will be Altacoola!" she cried. "Thank you, Mr. Haines. We are partners, then, for Altacoola."

The young man grasped her hand earnestly.

"I'd like to be your partner for good, Carolina!" he cried.

They stood there close together, holding each other's hands, looking into each other's eyes, when the door opened and in came Charles Norton.

WOULD LIVE AS JESUS DID.

Experiment of Young People in Cleveland—What a Doctor Has Done.

Some praying, some sobbing, all apparently in earnest, 1,800 young people, delegates from three church societies representing 11,000 people, pledged themselves and the other members of the organizations the other night to live for two weeks as they believe Jesus Christ would live were he on earth.

The Rev. F. B. Wallace, pastor of the East End Baptist church, leader of the movement, addressed the delegates in the Epworth Memorial church and gave a few rules to follow for living like Jesus.

"Be honest in your religion and in your business and social relations," the minister advised. "Jesus was a manly man. When you meet a friend shake hands like a man, not like a giraffe. Jesus allowed no shoddy work in his carpenter shop. Allow none in your business. Be gentlemen and ladies. Do not be loafers. Get to work. Get to work on time. Also do not quit work ten minutes early with a sour face. Christ would not do that. Do not take up four seats at a time on the street car. Be frank. If you are a fifty cent man do not pass yourself off as a dollar man. Be honest in your religion. Read the Bible. Pray. Be sunny. Bring sunshine into the lives of others. When the temptation comes to be dishonest in business say 'No,' no matter what comes. Let's be honest in speech, too, in what we say about our neighbors."

Dr. T. Percival Gerson, with his wife and three children, have abandoned their luxurious residence in Los Angeles and moved to one of the poorer suburbs, where the family will live as "Christ would live if he were upon earth today." Their new home is among working people, their daily life will be patterned after the life they believe Christ would lead, and their daily regime has been greatly altered.

Dr. Gerson is thirty-six years of age, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the medical department of Johns Hopkins university. He has practiced thirteen years and since 1904 has been examining physician for the civil service commission.

The most radical change in Dr. Gerson's life, and that is involved with respect to his wife and children, is his adoption of a rule never to charge a fee for his professional services. Payment must be voluntary on the patient's part.

"LEGAL" PUNCH FOR TAFT.

"Merry Widow" as Banquet Drink Within Georgia Prohibition Law.

"Merry Widow punch" will be the only drink served at the banquet to be given President Elect Taft in Atlanta on Jan. 15. It is a new mixture, this "Merry Widow punch," and President Asa G. Candler of the chamber of commerce invented it especially for this event in order not to violate the prohibition laws of Georgia. Mr. Candler is himself a staunch prohibitionist, and he says that his punch, although it hits the spot, is a legal drink in Georgia.

Mr. Candler will reveal none of its properties, though he is willing to state that it has been tried on a Methodist bishop and found suited to his exacting tastes.

Good From the Earthquake.

Say, Earthquake, When you shake Ten thousand houses down, And crush a town, Lay waste to fields, Disturb the sea And hurl the helpless To eternity, Do you imagine, O Earthquake, That that is all you shake? Grim, palsying monster, It is not for you to know That further than destruction You may go, But there is more, Earthquake, You shake The great world's heart Until it pours The best that's in it On your shores. You shake the money From a million hands Stretched out to help From far and nearly lands. You shake the ever living tree Of sacred, human sympathy. You shake the thoughtless Into active thought Of making good The ruin you have wrought. You shake the multiplicity of creeds Into one common cause of human needs. You shake the great world's heart Until it yields Its best on stricken cities And on riven fields. Say, Earthquake, Though you shake Much ill upon the smaller space, You shake much good to all the human race, Which needs such shocks as these To wake its nobler energies. —W. J. Lampton in New York Times.

LOW RATE, HIGH SPEED TELEGRAPH MAKING GOOD.

Two Months' Actual Service an Object Lesson in Possibilities of Rapid Automatic Wire Communication.

"Revolutions" are as common in the field of invention as they are among South American republics. The result is that people have grown skeptical. The mere assertion that a revolutionary discovery has been made is no longer sufficient. The epoch making invention must "make good."

This the thousand word a minute telegraph system known as the Telepost has done on the line opened two months ago between Boston and Portland, Me. On the occasion of the formal inauguration of the Telepost the mayor of Boston handed a fifty word message to the Telepost operator to send to the mayor of Portland. A few seconds were consumed in perforating a tape with holes corresponding to the words of the message. The transmitter emitted a "zip" and the message was in Portland. A few seconds more and the mayor of Boston was reading the mayor of Portland's reply.

1,000 Words a Minute Maintained.

It was a revelation of as well as a revolution in the possibilities of automatic telegraphy. In ordinary commercial operation the Telepost maintains a speed of a thousand words a minute.

The fifty word message of Mayor Hibbard of Boston was an example of what the Telepost company now carries for anybody over its lines for 25 cents. But this is only one of the innovations the Telepost has introduced. It sends ten word "telecards," delivered at destination by mail, for 10 cents; twenty-five word telegrams, delivered at destination by messenger, for 25 cents, or 100 word "teletapes" for the same charge, all without regard to distance.

At its low rates—only a fraction of those charged by the older companies—it is no wonder that the Telepost company figures on an enormous amount of business. Americans now send fewer telegrams per capita than any other civilized country. England found that when the government lines reduced rates the amount of business

Immediately jumped to such an extent that the revenue was actually larger at the lower rates. The same rule held good when postage rates were reduced.

Anybody who has used the telegraph to any extent in England or Germany knows how much more economical, speedy and convenient it is than any telegraph service heretofore available in the United States. Americans really need to be educated in the use of the telegraph. The Telepost's provision for prepaid replies, for instance, not only meets the demand for a means of securing reply telegrams, but obviates the "collect" nuisance.

Prepaid Reply System.

For example, a man in some other city or town wants information from New York by wire. When the telegram is delivered to the New York addressee, there is handed to him a "prepaid" telegraphic blank on which he can write his reply. This blank is already addressed to the man who paid for it and can be used for no other person and practically insures a reply. Thus for 50 cents it is possible to send a telegram and get a reply by wire—twenty-five word telegrams at that. This not only beats the "collect" plan, but even goes ahead of the English system of prepaid telegrams both in the greater cheapness of the service and in the fact that a prepaid blank can only be used for the person for whom it was intended.

Only a few of the conveniences and innovations of the Telepost service have been mentioned, just enough to justify the assertion that a real revolution of vast importance to the public has begun with the inauguration of Telepost wire service. In addition to the New England lines now open, work is well advanced on connecting lines to New York and on other sections that the company does not now care to announce.

DIFFERENT STYLES.

How Meredith and Browning Might Describe the Same Incident.

If Browning and George Meredith were describing the same act they might both be obscure, but their obscurities would be entirely different. Suppose, for instance, they were describing even so prosaic and material an act as a man being knocked downstairs by another man to whom he had given the lie. Meredith's description would refer to something which an ordinary observer would not see or at least could not describe. It might be a sudden sense of anarchy in the brain of the assaulter or a stupefaction and stunned serenity in that of the object of the assault.

He might write: "Wainwood's men vary in veracity" brought the baronet's arm up. He felt the doors of his brain burst and Wainwood a swift rushing of himself through air, accompanied with a clarity as of the annihilated."

Meredith, in other words, would speak queerly because he was describing queer mental experiences. But Browning might simply be describing the material incident of the man being knocked downstairs, and his description would run:

What then? "You lie" and doornail below stairs Takes bump from back.

This is not subtlety, but merely a kind of insane swiftness.—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

BEARDED LADIES.

A Parisian Showman Says They Are Quite Numerous.

An Englishwoman who confesses to a mild mania for attending the street fairs common in and around Paris says that she is always impressed by the extraordinary number of bearded ladies among the attractions.

"I was inclined to think that they were fakes," she says in the London Gentlewoman, "but when I discovered that they were quite genuine my surprise at this wonderful supply of phenomena grew stronger. And when a few days ago I saw at the fair in the Avenue d'Orleans a lady exhibited with a long flowing beard I could no longer withhold my curiosity."

"I applied for information to a gentleman well known in the showman world and who acts as a kind of agent to the people owning shows, supplying them with the necessary goods, human and otherwise. This gentleman appeared surprised at my question."

"Bearded ladies!" he exclaimed. "I can find as many as I like. You have no idea how many women, if they liked, could rival men as regards whiskers and mustaches. But they are not anxious to enter into that kind of competition."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

TEN DEMOCRATS KEEP OUT OF IT

Indiana Legislators Have Hard Time Getting Together.

PLAN TO REPEAL OPTION LAW

Another Caucus of House Democrats Fails to Arrive at Any Definite Agreement on the Part of the Majority as to the Course to Be Pursued in a Matter Which Is Just Now Engaging the Serious Attention of Indiana Folk—Ten Democrats Hold Out Against Any Move to Repeal Present County Option Law.

Indianapolis, Feb. 2.—There was a much better feeling among the house Democrats today. After threshing out the various local option bills for three hours last night, all but ten of the house Democrats agreed to support a measure providing for high license and substitution of ward and township for the county unit. No attempt was made to bind the members to a caucus measure.

The proceedings were harmonious, both factions indicating a desire to get together. Representatives Merriam, Clore, Hostetter, Chrisney, Sicks, Maish and other temperance Democrats held out for county local option, asserting that their platform does not call for repeal of that law, but enactment of ward and township unit. Other members urged the repeal of the law and the adoption of the ward and township unit with a license of $500 for the cities and $300 for towns. It was agreed that nothing shall be done to interfere with the Moore remonstrance law.

A compromise bill along these lines will be introduced at once. The ten Democrats who are for county local option cannot defeat the new measure if the "liberal" element can line up two or three Republicans.

Marshall Non-Committal.

The chances of repealing the county local option law are not bright, but the Democrats are trying to make good their campaign pledges. It was said today that Representative Wells of Ft. Wayne called on Governor Marshall recently regarding a statement Representative Racey of Vincennes is reported to have made at the former house Democratic caucus, that the governor wanted the county local option law let alone. The governor informed Wells that he had not made such a statement and that Racey was unauthorized to say anything as coming from him. Racey is chairman of the house committee on public morals, which is considering the local option bills. He called on the governor to explain that he had been misquoted and to declare that he had not said that the governor desired that no changes shall be made. The governor's attitude is becoming a matter of much comment, but it is said that he takes the ground that he is carrying out his campaign pledges not to interfere with the legislature. He might exert great influence for or against the repeal bills, but he won't take a hand.

A Bill for Free School Books.

Representative Wickey of Lake county has a bill which he will introduce at the next roll call requiring text-books for the common schools of the state to be furnished free of charge to the school patrons, except for a small tax levy for the purpose. Mr. Wickey says he made his campaign on this proposition.

The bill is in two sections. It provides that the township trustee, boards of school trustees or boards of school commissioners shall purchase text books and other necessary school supplies and shall furnish them free to all pupils in their respective schools subject to regulation for the care and return of the books. The bill provides, however, that the books may be sold to the pupils who wish to buy them.

Section 2 of the bill reads as follows: "The township trustee, board of school trustees or board of school commissioners are hereby empowered to levy a tax upon the real and personal property of their township, town or city sufficient to carry out the provisions of this act and to enter into contract for the purchase of books and supplies."

Garnishee Bill Causes Trouble.

The senate committee on judiciary is having a difficult time with the garnishee bill. Several public hearings have been held, and at each recurring session the merchants and the laboring men have been represented and have spoken for and against the bill. Another meeting was held yesterday afternoon, at which G. B. Slaymaker of Anderson, representing the Retail Merchants' association, and others speaking for the laboring men, were in attendance. No action was taken, and another meeting will probably be held. Senator Proctor of Elkhart has introduced a bill to instruct the state board of education to provide for the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" in every schoolroom at least once a week. Proctor figures the plan would arouse patriotism.

The house passed the senate resolution instructing the state to return to the survivors of the Forty-ninth Indiana infantry, a gold-headed cane left by their commander, Colonel Kegwin.

CONGRESSIONAL DOINGS

Centennial Anniversary of Lincoln's Birthday Made a National Holiday.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Seventy-five bills on the calendar of the senate were passed. Most of these measures were of local character. The senate passed without amendment a house bill declaring Feb. 12, 1909, the centenary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, to be a legal holiday and recommending a general observance of that day.

Unless the senate comes to their rescue, the West Point cadets will not be able to attend the inauguration on the 4th of March at the expense of the government. By a point of order an item providing funds for the cadets' trip to Washington was stricken from the military appropriation bill in the house. Another item removed from the bill was an appropriation for the construction of an asylum for refugees in time of war. Under suspension, the house passed the Payne bill prohibiting the importation of opium, but refused to pass the senate bill to pension federal judges. The Bennett bill for the exportation of aliens convicted of a felony, was also denied of passage. A limitation was placed upon the scope of the Olmstead special committee to investigate appropriations for, and the work of the secret service of the various departments.

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, Feb. 2.—Senator Proctor of Elkhart, a Democrat, will prepare a new bill to repeal the present local option law. His bill would not substitute the township and ward local option idea, but would substitute the high license feature in cities and incorporated towns and would do away with saloons entirely in townships and towns with a population of less than 1,500. Senator Proctor's idea is to confine the saloons within the towns of more than 1,500. He says that this feature alone would increase the amount of "dry" territory over the state of Indiana, as there are many "wet" townships and towns in the state which have less than 1,500 population. He would give the people of each ward in the cities the right to decide whether or not they shall have saloons, but in incorporated towns the town as a whole would vote for or against the saloon. Some eastern states have the city and town unit. Senator Proctor said he realized that a township and ward substitute for county local option would not be considered favorably by the senate, which is Republican, because that system of option was fathered by the Democrats. He thought a bill which would be even more drastic than any yet proposed by the Democrats, but would yet give cities the right to decide the saloon question exclusive of the county districts, would more likely meet with favor among Republicans.

Governor Marshall, who was elected on a township and ward unit platform, has turned a deaf ear to the appeals of the Democratic leaders who have urged him to help bring about the repeal of the county local option law. It was said today by one deep in his confidence that the governor has determined to let the legislature settle the question without any interference or suggestion on his part. He will not lift his hand to bring about the substitution of the ward and township for the county unit, nor will he take any steps to have the present law sustained. The governor, it was said, has some very decided views about what ought to be done and what he might do from a personal standpoint, but his course as chief executive of the state will be guided by his campaign promise that he will not seek to influence the legislature or try to dictate what it shall do. He reiterated this pledge in his message to the legislature on the day of his inauguration, and no one is authorized to say that he will deviate an inch from it. The statement was made today by one of the governor's personal friends that he turned down party leaders of no less prominence than National Committeeman Taggart and Senator Elect B. F. Shively of South Bend during the last week, when they were reported to have visited him for the purpose of getting him to help swing into line the house Democrats who threaten to bolt any caucus that would seek to bind them to repeal or modify the county local option law. After the caucus of the house Democrats last Thursday night at which Senator Elect Shively appealed to the members to support a ward and township unit, he called on Governor Marshall at the latter's office. It is said that he presented the situation to him, urging him to use his influence to have the platform pledge regarding local option carried out. Governor Marshall is said to have informed Shively that under no circumstances or conditions will he meddle with the affairs of the legislature. Following Shively's visit it was said that Taggart called and that he appealed for assistance along the same line. It was reported that the governor's answer was exactly the same as he gave to Shively. Since then the governor has received many calls from Democrats who want the township and ward unit substituted for the county local option, and from others who urged him to help sustain the present law. It is said that to all he has said that he won't take part for either side.

As to whether or not the governor will sign a bill repealing the county local option law, one of his close friends said today that he stands by his campaign promise to sign such a measure only in event of the repealing bill carrying with it the re-enactment of the Moore remonstrance law and the adoption of the ward and township as the unit. Any other repealing bill will be vetoed. In hopes of getting the temperance Democrats into line with the majority of the party's members in the house, the Democratic state committee has been brought to the front. Conferences were held by Chairman Jackson and several members of the organization. A sub-committee consisting of Peter Foley, Fifth district; Bernard Korbly, Seventh; John Osborn, Sixth; George Pleasants, Fourth; and Michael Foley, Ninth, was appointed to confer with the house Democrats and to urge them to support a bill repealing the county local option law and substituting the ward and township unit. Peter Foley was made chairman of the committee. He called on Governor Marshall, but it is said that the governor told him plainly that he would not take part in the program. Michael Foley later issued a public statement to the effect that he was not present at the meeting and that he does not believe that the committee ought to take a part in the enactment of any legislation. He repudiated the organization program so far as it applies to him.

That All Is Progressing Well on the Big Ditch Is the Opinion of the Experts Who Accompanied Mr. Taft on His Isthmian Trip—President Elect Makes It Plain to All Observers That He Is For All Panamanians Alike and Not For One or Another Political Faction—State Dinner for Distinguished Visitor Today.

Panama, Feb. 2.—That Mr. Taft is acting as pacificator in the strong post-election factional feeling which at times has been very marked, is shown by the fact that invitations have been sent to both President Obaldia and Senator Arias, at one time opposition candidates for the presidency, to the dinner and reception arranged for today by Herbert G. Squiers, the American minister, in honor of the American president-elect.

Mr. Taft called upon ex-President Amador, who is ill. Ex-President Amador and President Obaldia have not been on friendly terms for a long time because of political differences. Mr.

COLONEL GOETHALS.

Taft wishes to make it plain that his cordiality is toward Panama as a whole, and not toward one or another political faction, and he has endeavored during his stay here to treat all men and all parties in the same cordial manner.

Both sides of the controversy which has arisen through the commissary system will be given a hearing, but he will make no recommendation with regard to the treaty, which refers the question to arbitration.

Prior to the visit of Mr. Taft and the board of engineers to the Culebra cut, all dynamite was removed from the workings, so that possibility of accident to the president elect might be avoided. Although not speaking for publication, the engineers do not conceal their satisfaction at the feasibility of the Gatun dam. Chief Engineer Lieutenant Colonel Goethals and the army engineers engaged in the construction work, are much gratified at the results of the investigation of the special engineers. Colonel Goethals said today that naval vessels would sail through the lock canal by Jan. 1, 1915.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

Illinois Senatorial Contest Has No New Development Today.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—The friends of Senator Hopkins joined in a conference last evening at the Silas hotel, and Senator Hopkins addressed the men who have signed the agreement to stick to him to the end. It was generally understood that there is to be a meeting of the southern Illinois Republican members this evening to consider their actions in the future.

There was little change in the voting for United States senator at the joint session today.

Back to Its Old Place.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 2.—In preparation for the observance of the Lincoln centenary on the birthplace of the emancipator near Hodgenville, Ky., the cabin in which Lincoln was born has been removed to the memorial farm. This cabin, which was on exhibition here during Kentucky's famous homecoming week in 1906, has been stored since in a local warehouse.

Bitter Wrangle Over Capital.

Cape Town, Cape Colony, Feb. 2.—The convention now being held here with the object of forming a plan for the union of the colonies has been deadlocked for a week over the question of which city shall be the capital, which threatens to wreck the whole scheme.

Fatal Family Quarrel.

Kendallville, Ind., Feb. 2.—Edwin Wright, fifty years old, was killed at his home in Rome City by his brother-in-law, O. B. Giley, who in a quarrel is said to have hit Wright over the head with a stick of wood.

Ben L. McFarlan, the retiring postmaster, submits the following letter of thanks and appreciation:

"I wish to express my sincere thanks to the office force of the post-office, city carriers and rural route carriers for the elegant chair I found on my return home Monday evening, well knowing the feeling and sentiment that prompted the gift. I appreciate it the more and shall ever kindly remember our pleasant association for the past three years."

SUSTAINED BROKEN FINGER.

Mrs. S. A. Johnson fell at her home near Brandon station Sunday and broke a finger on her left hand. Her left wrist was also fractured. It will be several weeks before Mrs. Johnson will recover from the accident.

$50.00 in gold for you.

AMUSEMENTS

Kinzo the great Japanese skater will be the attraction at the Kramer rink on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. A general admission fee of ten cents will be charged.

The Kramer rink will be open for skating tonight. The rink will be open for ladies only Wednesday afternoon.

Beginning Tuesday night the rink will be open every evening this week for skating. Wednesday afternoon a special matinee for women only and Saturday afternoon a matinee for all.

The bill at the Grand theater pleased a large audience at all of the shows last night. The two subjects are comic and especially amusing. Miss Iva Brown will sing "Spooneyville."

The two subjects, "The Vagabond" and "The Merry Widow" will be shown at the Vaudet tonight. Both are excellent pictures and are sure to please. Good crowds attended the shows last night. Miss Clara Gregg will sing the popular ballad "Some-time."
